Circular Letter
Rural Electrification, No. 1-40

February 16, 1940.

TO ALL DIRECTORS OF EXTENSION:

The Rural Electrification Administration is intensely interested in having a full use made of the possibilities that electric current offers. With this in mind, they have issued material on a campaign for more electric brooders and have distributed it to the directors and managers of REA cooperatives. The plan of this campaign suggests that certain educational features on electric brooding can best be discussed by representatives of the Extension Service. Care has been taken not to involve the county agents in the business efforts of the cooperatives.

Enclosed are two copies of this book which outlines the plan in elaborate detail. The extension poultry specialists and extension engineers will doubtless be interested in keeping informed concerning this campaign and can make good use of these books in aiding county agricultural agents to meet requests for information about brooding chicks with electricity.

Very truly yours,

Reuben Brigham
